

Motivation

Point of the Assignment: 1) To help you identify your true inner motivation for going to school. 2) To help you learn that all three motivations have advantages and disadvantages. 3) To help you think about what you can do to improve your three motivations.

Effective goal setting begins with knowing what you want and why you want it. What you want is your goal, and why you want it is your motivation. Now, you will have an opportunity to explore your motivation for going to school.

A. In the space provided, write your answers the following questions: (Be sure to spend enough time in self-reflection to come up with something new each time. Do not just repeat yourself. You will not receive credit if you do!)

1. Why am I in this class?

2) Why did I answer the way I did in Item #1 above?

i. Why did I answer the way I did in Item #2 above?

1. Why did I answer the way I did in Item #i above?

2. Why did I answer the way I did in Item #1 above?

According to Gregg Spencer (1992), students typically hold three views towards education:
(See last page for answers)

- 1) _____
- 2) _____
- 3) _____

B. What do my answers reveal about my motivation for going to school? (Which of the three views are most reflected in your answers to Section A?)

Motivation

	Advantages	Disadvantages
View #1 “Ticket to a job”
View #2 “Jump through hoops”
View #3 “Search for knowledge and truth”

D. What are some possible areas of growth, regarding having a balanced view of education, do you think you need to develop?

(View 1) How can you improve your “Ticket to a job” view?

(View 2) How can you improve your “Jumping through a series of hoops” view?

(View 3) How can you improve your “Search for knowledge and truth” view?
