

You are a friend and close to the heart; For you I said a prayer. Lifting my voice to heaven; I asked God to bless you with greatness; but I prayed for strength of the body, strength of mind, strength of the heart, I asked him to hold your hand, through the good times and the bad. To give you guidance in the choices that you make, in the little steps you take, to catch you if you stumble and may fall.

I asked him to shed his gracious light, upon all things you encounter To view each trial that you endure as a simple test of the power and convictions that you possess.

I asked him to grant you wisdom, so that you can pass your wisdom onto others. I asked God to help you speak words of kindness, seek out the good in people; As you grow older, you will discover that you have two hands one for helping yourself, and the other for helping others. People, even more than things, have to be restored, renewed, revived, reclaimed & redeemed; never throw out anyone.

I asked God to grant you health, to heal the wounds of flesh, and the spirit. I asked God to grant you love, let it blossom & flourish. Not just love to your family but to every living thing; family, friends, pets, plants, neighbors, nature, enemies and most importantly yourself, because when you love yourself you are able to give the best of you to everyone else. Let your happiness flourish & bring a smile to all others.

Remember if you need a helping hand you will find one at the end of each of your arms. Don't forget to walk with the knowledge that you never walk alone because the Lord will always be by your side. I said this prayer, so that God may fan the beautiful fires within your soul.
